The movie starts in North Korea with the extremely violent and cruel training of elite agents, and especially among them is a girl who mastered guns and is sent in a mission on the other side of the border. In the South, Yoo Jung-won is a special agent of the Korean CIA. He and his colleague have been looking for years for Lee Bang-hui, a North Korean female spy who killed many top ranking South officials. A mysterious sniper seems to follow them on every place they are called for rescue and kill the person they were supposed to protect. Jung-won is dating a Myông-hyôn who sells fishes and aquariums. They are supposed to get married. But a North Korean spy team led by Choi Min-sik have seized CTX capsules, a new weapon. They plan to make several terrorist attacks. The first one succeeds. The second one is planned on a stadium where a South-North soccer match is held and were the South president is attending. Jung-won and his colleague have understood there is a double agent or someone infiltrated in their service and they start to suspect each other. They give a fake rendez-vous in a theatre and the mysterious female sniper and Choi Min-sik's character appear as planned. They escape but Jung-won follows the girl and discovers that she is his girlfriend... He makes some research and discovers that the 'original' Myông-hyôn is in an hospital in Jeju Island. Lee Bang-hui who spent some time with her had plastic surgery in Japan to take her identity... He is decided to arrest her and her colleague, but during the operation Jung-woo's friend and colleague is killed. He then tries to find the bomb in the stadium. After a difficult fight, he finally stops the bomb, kills Choi Min-sik's character and Lee Bang-hui. After the turmoil, he finds a voice message she left him, saying she loved him. He goes to Jeju to offer a couple of fish to the original Myông-hyôn...
